HOLIDAY TAKES LIVES OF 3 IN RICHLAND AREA

2 Millersburg Residents Die; One by Lightning Bolt, Other In Fall From Roof.

ASHLAND CYCLIST KILLED

Mansfielder In Same Cycle Party Injured In Mishap In Pennsylvania.

Two persons, both Millersburg residents, died in holiday accidents in the Mansfield area, while an Ashland youth was killed in Pennsylvania as holiday violent deaths mounted to 26 in Ohio and at least 166 in the nation.

Only one person was reported injured in traffic mishaps in Richland county over Memorial day, but a Mansfield motorcyclist suffered a fractured leg and other injuries yesterday in a crash near Washington, Pa.

Victims in the Millersburg tragedies were Walter Tressel, 45, killed when he fell from the roof of a house, and Miss Helen Marie Kraft, 16, who was fatally injured by lightning as she stood in the doorway of her home.

The Ashland victim was Bernard T. Dorkee, 24, caretaker at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson. He died when his motorcycle collided with a car near Washington, Pa. Taft Jordan, 31, employe at the Humphryes Manufacturing company, Mansfield, who was in the same cycle party, was injured. They were en route to Camp Lee, Va., to visit friends.

Holmes county authorities said Tressel received a broken neck Friday morning when he came in contact with a power line and was knocked off the roof of the home of Walter Vesy one mile south of Millersburg.

Tressel was trimming trees over the house when the trimmers he was using touched the power line, the shock causing him to lose his balance and fall off the house, authorities said. His body was discovered by John Lowe, a neighbor. Tressel was a veteran of the first World war.

Funeral services for Tressel will be held at 3:30 p. m. Monday at the Elliott funeral home in Millersburg with Rev. E. F. Kendle, pastor of the Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in the Millersburg cemetery.

Surviving are Tressel's mother,

HEAVY RAINS BENEFIT CROPS

Inch Fall Proves Help to Richland Farmers; More Showers Tonight.

An early morning rainstorm today checked the threat, temporarily at least, of water shortages for apprehensive Richland county farmers faced with the aspect of drying wells, cisterns and creeks.

Almost an inch of rain poured down as relief for crops. Otto Sprunger, weather observer, said that the Mansfield area, although still having a rainfall deficiency of 5.87 inches for the past three months, has had several showers in the past three weeks which have benefitted crops a great deal.

Additional relief is promised for tonight with the weatherman's prediction for occasional showers tonight and tomorrow with slightly warmer temperatures tomorrow.

Showers late Thursday dropped the mercury from 89 to 49 degrees to give holiday observers ideal weather for activities. The temperature climbed steadily during the day to 77 degrees. Today, the mercury started upward from

Tells Memorial Day Crowd to Rededicate Lives to America

"We must rededicate our lives to the purpose for which those men whom we honor today died," Charles R. Barefoot, of Toledo, said at the Memorial day services held in Mansfield cemetery yesterday before approximately 1,000 persons.

"We are faced with the battle of the century in the present emergency, and we must remember that it is our responsibility to see that those men shall not have died in vain," he said.

"From the early pioneers on through the valiant men who made the United States the dominant power in the western world, Americans have fought in a true-blooded, two-fisted style to maintain standards of virtue, justice and decency," Barefoot continued.

"We must be determined to face the aftermath of present conflict with the knowledge that the race which could bear a Lincoln and Washington can meet any needs the future may impose upon it.

"The time has come that Americans must determine to be Americans only because divided allegiance will sap the strength of the nation. We must rededicate our lives to the American way of life," he concluded.

Barefoot's address climaxed a program at the cemetery which was opened by James G. Wallace, president of the day. Wallace's introduction recalling the sacredness of the day was followed by a Flag Salute, led by school children and the communal singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

More than a thousand people attended the services at the cemetery which had been preceded by a Memorial day parade.

James May, Bowman Street school pupil, led the recitation of the "American's Creed" in which the audience participated.

Glenn L. Bierly, of the American Legion, read John A. Logan's General Orders No. 11, which were issued on May 5, 1868, and proved to be the starting impetus for the Memorial day observances which have continued to this day. Logan

MILK PRICES ADVANCE HERE

Quarts and Pints to Be Hiked One Cent Effective Monday, Dealers Announce.

Most Mansfield milk distributors will raise the prices one cent on pints and one cent on quarts Monday, it was announced today.

The new prices for grade A milk will be seven cents a pint and 12 cents per quart. There will be a corresponding increase in the price of chocolate milk and buttermilk which also will sell for 12 cents a quart and seven cents a pint.

The increase, ordered by the Mansfield Milk council, is necessary because of the increased cost of all farm products and drought conditions which have reduced milk production, dairymen said.

All retail distributors in the Mansfield area will raise their prices during June, but some of them will not advance prices until June 26, it was said.

Also effected by the increase will be the price of coffee cream which will sell for 12 cents a half pint. Whipping cream will be two cents higher per half pint, the price going from 20 cents to 22 cents.

RETAIN GUARD AT KEY PLANTS FOR DEFENSE

Around-the-Clock Patrol Kept As Precaution After Rumor Of Mass Sabotage Plot.

'TAKING NO CHANCES'

Navy, Coast Guard Watch Shore Establishments as Workers Are Dismissed.

(By International News Service)

Despite an "all-quiet" report today by the navy department, the nation's armed forces in cooperation with local police maintained around-the-clock patrols at key defense establishments as a precaution against a reported mass sabotage plot over the holiday week-end.

Precautions were taken by the army, navy, coast guard and the federal bureau of investigation after intelligence services obtained information that "fifth-column" forces had made elaborate plans to cripple America's defense program by striking at Harbors, factories, docks and arsenals.

Responsible army and navy officials declined to discuss the rumors officially or to comment on counter moves against possible subversive elements, and described troop activities as "routine maneuvers."

Authoritative sources in Washington, however, asserted that government agencies were "taking no chances" and that vigilance would be maintained until further notice.

The navy and coast guards especially were reported to be concerned over shoreline establishments after navy commandants at various yards ordered dismissal of workers who were suspected to sympathizing with Communist, German or Italian causes.

It was pointed out that either the dismissed men of similar workers who had not yet been apprehended might use the holiday lull in many defense areas as an opportunity to set fires or place time bombs.

The nation-wide vigil apparently resulted because official sources were not certain exactly where danger spots were and because "tips" regarding the alleged plot were very vague.

Especially heavy precautions were being taken on the west coast, where many of the nation's largest aircraft plants are located.

There was some criticism in official circles of some of the pre-

Columns Move Into Baghdad As Riots Rage

Nazi-Supported Premier Ali Said to Have Fled to Iran; New Battle Looms for Middle East as Cretan Vise Tightens.

BULLETIN

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—Large forces of British and Axis warplanes have clashed over the eastern Mediterranean, the Royal Air Force reported today. Two of the Axis planes were shot down—one by a Free French pilot—the communique said, and many others probably failed to reach their bases.

(By Associated Press)

With the envelopment of Crete seemingly complete save for formal British acknowledgment of Axis victory, Britain won today her war-within-a-war in Iraq and solidified that Middle East front for another defense against the Germans and Italians.

The future of the war, the fate of Suez and Alexandria and Britain's last claims to naval dominance of the eastern Mediterranean probably depend on how well and how fast she can re-shape her lines in Iraq.

British motorized forces pressed into the outskirts of storied Baghdad—today a place of riot. The government of Iraq was reported suing for peace after less than a month of vest pocket warfare with the British.

Iraq, as rich in oil as she is in Arabian fable and Biblical lore, appeared surely as the answer to the war's demands for a great new battlefield.

She probably would have been that by now, had not the German high command decided the sealane island of Crete had to be taken over first from its Greek and British imperial defenders, for it would be a flank threat to the Nazi Drang nach Osten.

That decision was tough luck for Rashid Ali Al Gailani, pro-Axis Iraq leader who gained power with a coup April 4 and started fighting the British May 2, hoping to eject them from their treaty foothold with Axis help.

Rashid Ali called for and got German help—but it was only a trickle of warplanes and technicians. Germany was preoccupied with Crete. Warplanes were needed to blast the British defenses there to make way for the landing of parachutists, troop gliders, air troop transports and even plane-carried tanks.

So Rashid Ali's anti-British cause went begging and now, according to British advices, the premier himself has fled into Iran. It also was reported, without confirmation, that Rashid Ali and his aides took with them—perhaps the better to bargain with—the child king of Iraq, six-year-old Feisal II.

The German high command said the pursuit of British and Greek forces eastward over the

WORST AIR RAID BLASTS DUBLIN

DUBLIN—Premier Eamon de Valera walked grimly through bombed districts of Dublin today, inspecting ruins in which 52 persons died and perhaps 200 were injured in last night's raid by unidentified planes.

In placing the total at 52, an official statement said 22 bodies had been recovered, and that 30 persons were unaccounted for and presumed to be dead.

The tall, gaunt premier viewed the wreckage of bombed houses and quietly asked questions of his police escort.

Ship Carrying U. S. Food to Britain Arrives.

LONDON—(INS)—Bearing a cargo of cheese, eggs and flour, the 3,490-ton merchantman Egyptian Prince arrived at a British port today—first foodship to reach England under the lease-lend arrangements.

Food Minister Lord Woolton, who yesterday pleaded for a greater supply of powdered milk from America to meet a growing scarcity, met the boat at dockside and thanked W. Averill Harriman, President Roosevelt's personal envoy in expediting aid to Britain.

The vessel also carried a number of ambulances.

'Mad Butcher' of Cleveland Linked To New Slaying

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Cleveland police today faced the possibility that "the mad butcher of Kingsbury Run" is again at work, following a report from Pittsburgh that a second human leg, believed to have been the mate to one found last Sunday, was fished out of the Ohio river at Neville island.

Because of the skill with which the two legs were severed at the hip joint, detectives assert the work possibly could have been that of the Cleveland torso killer who has claimed more than a dozen victims in the last five years.

It was believed the Pittsburgh victim was slain in a box car and the dismembered body tossed into the river where tracks of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad skirt the water.

County Farmers Voting Today on Wheat Marketing

Today was election day for Richland county wheat farmers who went to the polls to ballot on government wheat marketing quotas for this year's crop.

Nearly 900 farmers who will harvest more than 15 acres of wheat this summer were expected to vote on the quotas in the special election conducted by the U. S. department of agriculture. Polls opened at 7 a. m. and will close at 5 p. m.

If two-thirds of the nation's wheat farmers vote favorably on the quotas, the federal government will set a limit on the amount of wheat to be sold this year and assess a penalty against farmers who sell beyond their quota.

Election board members in the Mansfield district said voting was brisk this morning at AAA headquarters here where farmers from five townships cast their ballots.

County AAA committeemen said they did not expect to have a complete tabulation of the election results before Monday. Absentee ballots will be received by mail until Monday and challenged votes will not be considered by the county AAA committee until early next week, it was said.

The wheat marketing quotas, if approved, are expected to prevent flooding of the grain market at harvest time and the consequent drop in prices. Wheat loans on grain stored for future sale will be abandoned if the quotas are voted down, AAA officials warned. The loans were available last year.

U. S. to Notify France Acts Not Words Will Be Watched

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States, it was reported in authoritative quarters today, will notify the Petain government within a few days that Vichy's future acts, rather than its words, will be basis for American judgment on Franco-German "collaboration."

The note, to be handed to Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, will be in the nature of a reply to a formal communication recently received from Vichy. This communication promises that the French fleet and colonies would not be turned over to the Nazis. It also besought sympathetic American understanding of France's position as a conquered, divided and hungry nation.

Secretary Hull is preparing the note, it was learned, on the basis of facts assembled by state department experts on the known extent of Vichy's "collaboration" with the Axis powers in contrast to France's specific commitments in the armistice pacts.

The American government, it was said, will set forth its views on France's acquiescence to Nazi demands—particularly in Syria, and recommend a future policy which would greatly improve Franco-American relations, now severely strained.

France's action in permitting German warplanes to use Syrian airfields in an aerial offensive against the British in Iraq provides a specific instance, it was said, for fear that the Vichy government will also go beyond its armistice obligations and allow the Germans to make use of the French fleet or French territory in north and west Africa.

Report Bismarck Was 50,000 Ton Craft, Biggest In World

(By Associated Press)

AN ENGLISH PORT.—Statements that the German Bismarck was a 50,000-ton super-dreadnaught —largest fighting ship in the world—with 2,400 officers and men threw into new perspective today last week's mighty naval duel in which she destroyed the battle cruiser Hood and then was sunk in vengeance.

A British naval officer who participated in the sea fight which cut short the Bismarck's fierce challenge to British naval supremacy gave the first indication the Nazi capital ship was bigger than the 35,000-ton rating generally accorded her.

She was a 50,000-ton battleship, the officer declared—"undoubtedly far above anything we had thought of."

That statement shed new light on an assertion by a survivor of the Bismarck that she was crowded with 2,400 officers and men, 400 of them naval cadets. Approximately 100 were reported rescued.

Previously, supposing the Bismarck a 35,000-ton ship, it had been estimated she carried no more than 1,500 officers and men.

(The big ship's fight with the Hood and Britain's new 35,000-ton Prince of Wales last Saturday was the Bismarck's first reported naval action since her completion during the war.

(Indications that she was far bigger than the 35,000-ton listing raised the question of the size of Germany's other new battleship, the Tirpitz, believed completed but not officially yet reported in action. She had been listed as a sistership of the Bismarck.)

The 2,400-total of her crew would be approximately 1,000 more than a 35,000-ton British battleship would carry for normal opera-

The state department also announced that arrangements have been made with the American Export Steamship Lines to grant the American survivors preferential accomodations on ships sailing from Lisbon for New York.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—There can be times when an actress doesn't consider her looks the most important thing. Gene Tierney has just gone through one of those times.

In "Belle Starr" you'll see Gene looking far from her best. If you look closely, you'll see that in some scenes her eyes appear swollen, the lids puffy. The technicolor make-up isn't concealing entirely what Gene Tierney has been through, is still going through.

It looked for a while as if this one-time social butterfly, having plucked a movie plum, would have to turn it over to someone else. Her eyes, ordinarily one of her most attractive features, would become inflamed and swollen shortly after exposure to the lights of the set. Production went on with Gene absent a day here, two days here, a week. There was no explanation for the trouble, and Director Irving Cummings and all concerned were in a steaming stew. The studio liked Gene's work but if she couldn't carry on . . . They would have to re-shoot about 10 days' scenes, at $8,000 a day, with someone else

Gene's career? Well, later she might get another chance — if some kindly producer were willing to run the risk of repeating a "Belle Star" experience. But making movies is a business, and nobody deliberately multiplies the adverse odds. Gene Tierney would have been through.

She isn't. The latest diagnosis seems to have routed the ailment. Stomach trouble, affecting the eyes. A cure is promised.

On the set Gene is a happy girl. She says she was never seriously worried, though everyone else was. You can empty the salt cellar on that statement. The eyes are still painful, the lids are still puffy under the make-up.

"I won't look as well as I'd like, but it's only for one picture," she says. "And one picture doesn't make a career."

If Gene were a Hollywood oldtimer she could have found many a mournful parallel to her own misfortune to worry her. People who had trouble in the cards, people who were smacked down just when the going was good, people who had narrow squeezes—as narrow as Gene Tierney's.

TAFT HITS FDR RIGHT TO FIX PRICE CEILINGS

Double-Headed Dispute Gets Under Way Over Farm Loans, Prices.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A double-headed dispute involving millions of dollars for farmers, the public, and the government gathered momentum today on the senate side of the capitol.

One clash involved the administration's power to fix "price ceilings" on farm products, metals, or anything else involved in the huge national defense drive.. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) contended that President Roosevelt had absolutely no authority to do this.

"If the president can fix prices, he can fix wages and salaries and do anything else he wants to," Senator Taft said.

The second controversy centered about the price-boosting farm loan bill recently signed by President Roosevelt. Here Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) claimed that congress ordered government loans at "85 per cent of parity without ever determining what parity should be by law."

The Oklahoma senator has asked that the senate agriculture committee hold a broad investigation of parity prices for farm products and then write the resulting formula into law.

This request, obviously involving millions of dollars in crop values, participated both disputes when Leon Henderson, head of the office of price administration and civilian supply, defended his right to price maximums. Henderson appeared before the agriculture committee Thursday.

The price administrator testified that President Roosevelt was exercising the same price fixing power used during the last war by President Wilson and added that the government expected to act "when any price gets out of line."

Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) who clashed frequently with Henderson over powers to fix prices without express authority from congress, predicted that the agriculture committee would approve the Thomas resolution for an investigation of farm parity price levels.

Taft said administration leaders were claiming authority to fix prices under the unlimited emergency proclaimed by the president "but there is nothing in the constitution or the statutes to support them. They claim, too, that such powers were exercised during the last war. In the first place, we are not at war, and in the second place, the price fixing arrangement then was not so stringent as this. Then, it was done by agreement of the manufacturers themselves."

In the past price levels have been determined by economists at the department of agriculture and their figures were used recently when congress approved legislation intended to give farmers millions of additional dollars by mandatory loans on major crops at 85 per cent of parity.

LOOT SAFE OF $75 IN CASH

Burglars Chisel Rivets Off Door After Entering Office Of Radiator Company.

Working in a clumsy but effective manner, burglars rifled the safe of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary company, 139 North Diamond street, over the holiday and obtained $75 in cash.

H. J. Linnevers, 255 Rae avenue, acting manager of the plant, reported the burglary to police this morning.

Lieut. Bruce Friday and Identification Officer Ernest Fuller investigated the case and reported that the burglars had obviously taken several hours to open the safe.

Both reported that the burglars had worked crudely in efforts to jimmy the safe. Instead of concentrating on the combination itself, they chiseled off several rivets holding the steel facing on the safe door and then gouged through an inner plate. Friday said that the door of the safe was almost completely destroyed.

Although the burglars did not remove anything except the cash, papers were thrown about the office, police said. Entry was made by cutting a screen in a window on the south side of the building. Police said the window had been left unlatched.

New Dam Will Force Removal Of 2,000 Graves

PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS HAD A LUCRATIVE YEAR IN 1940

HARRISBURG —(INS)— Pennsylvania farmers had a highly lucrative year in 1940, according to Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light, who reported that income from all farm marketings showed an increase of $7,751,000 over 1939.

The agriculture secretary's report showed a total revenue of $271,990,000 of which $80,001,000 was received from crops and $191,989,000 came from livestock and livestock products.

Despite the increased agricultural revenue, the combined farm inventory numbers of five species of livestock—horses, mules, cattle, sheep and hogs — were two per cent lower on January 1 than the year previous. The decline was shared by all species with the exception of cattle which showed no change from the previous year.

Egg production by Pennsylvania farm flocks, according to Light, increased to 11.5 in the monthly number of eggs per layer. The secretary pointed out that the average for the nation was 8.7 eggs monthly per layer. The Pennsylvania average was maintained despite a decrease in the number of layers from 15,570,000 in 1939 to 15,440,000 the last year.

Light emphasized that particular care is taken of all flocks in the state. Tests for disease and matings take place continually in order to assure a full production capacity.

Another source of satisfaction was the 16.4 pounds average milk production per cow, the highest monthly average since February, 1931. Light attributed the increased production to good weather in the south and southeastern areas and the heavy rations of grain fed to cows.

BACK IN CELLS

O. S. R. Fugitives Captured by Ashland Deputies.

Less than 24 hours after they had walked away from the poultry farm of the Ohio State reformatory, two inmates were recaptured yesterday by Ashland county deputies near Nankin.

The inmates, Willis Jones, 25, and Russell Pugh, 29, both sentenced from Belmont county, abandoned the freight train which they had hopped near the reformatory late Thursday afternoon at Ashland and started across country, according to the deputies.

A farmer near Nankin called Deputies M. S. Rickenbrod and Earl Kaylor who took the inmates back to Ashland. They were returned to the reformatory today. Arthur L. Glatfke, reformatory superintendent, said that additional time would be added to their present sentences.

Jones was admitted last October to serve one to 20 years for rape with consent while Jones began serving a one to 15 years on Dec. 4, 1939, for assault while attempting to rob.

Laff-a-Day

"He's made 1,000 crossings to forget, but after the 900th he forgot what he was trying to forget."

Riding in a car that looked like one of those open-air contraptions seen around college campuses, four soldiers from Camp Shelby, Miss., came through Mansfield this morning on U. S. route 42, apparently headed for home on furlough. Painted across the back of the car was "Ohio or Bust" and on the side were the words: "Girls Wanted." The car, a roadster model, was painted light blue with white spots all over it.

A Cleveland motorist picked the wrong time to sash-shay across the center line of U. S. Route 42 south of Mansfield early yesterday morning and as a result he chased a Mansfield state highway patrol car off of the road. Patrolmen gave chase and brought him back to Mansfield. He forfeited a $25 bond in municipal court for his error. Corp. C. F. Strayer and W. C. Smith reported that the Clevelander came much too close for comfort.

One Mansfield woman is convinced that there is at least one honest person left in the city. Miss Ellen Calver, 56 South Franklin avenue, reported to police yesterday that some one had taken her pocketbook with $32 in valuables Thursday while she was in a downtown night club. She said the purse was taken while she was visiting some friends at another table. Last night she called police again to report that the purse with all of its contents had been returned.

Spectators at the auto races at the Fairgrounds yesterday were given an unscheduled thrill when two of the racers tangled in the second race and crashed through the infield fence. Neither of the drivers was hurt and the autos were only slightly damaged. Both were entered in succeeding heats. The only other crash, a minor one, came when George Whitman, winner of the feature race, piled into the infield fence following his victory.

HARVARD WILL STRESS POSTURE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.— (UP) — Harvard is conducting a campaign to have future graduates with "heads up, chins in, chests out," according to Norman W. Fradd, assistant physical education director.

Students undergo posture training to prevent the bulging curves common to many middle-aged men. Fradd says simple corrective exercises while young will insure better posture in later years since most body unbalance is fairly fixed at 25.

Rounded shoulders pull the chest in and throw the abdomen out, Fradd reports. This causes a "sway back curve in the lower spine, a forward off balance tipping of the pelvis and a consequent sag of internal organs."

PRESIDENT ORDERS PLAN FORMULATED

Tells Secretary to Insure Accommodation to Needs Of Nation, Defense.

(By United Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt today began implementing his proclamation of an unlimited national emergency today by naming Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes virtual dictator of the $10,000,000,000 American oil industry.

Designating Ickes as petroleum coordinator for national defense, Mr. Roosevelt ordered him to formulate a program to insure "that the supply of petroleum and its products will be accommodated to the needs of the nation and the national defense program."

The move followed Mr. Roosevelt's warning in a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn that oil rationing in the east is a "distinct possibility" in the next few months and Ickes' own prediction that gasoline-less Sundays in eastern states may shortly become an actuality.

Ickes already is federal oil administrator, having administered the Connolly act, which prohibits the transport in interstate commerce, of oil produced in excess of quotas set under state laws, since it was enacted in 1935. And as head of the interior department, he is the head of the department's petroleum conservation division and bureau of mines.

It appeared that civilians in Atlantic seaboard states might be the first to feel the full effects of the national defense emergency—a shortage of gasoline and lubricants, primarily essential of the mechanized war of the modern era. At a press conference Thursday, Ickes declared that he would advocate priorities on gasoline and oil "if needed," suggesting that drastic conservation measures are being considered.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a letter to Ickes, gave him power only to "make specific recommendations" to federal or state governmental authorities and to the petroleum industry. But under the state of unlimited emergency proclaimed by Mr. Roosevelt last Tuesday night, there was little doubt that the "recommendations" of the new coordinator on matters of petroleum dispersion and use would amount to a virtual ukase.

Federal petroleum statistics made it obvious that the presidential move was precipitated not by any shortage of crude or processed petroleum but by a shortage of transportation facilities to make gasoline and lubricant supplies available at reasonable prices in major consuming centers.

The oldfields of the southwest are adequate to meet any demand, even in the present defense industrial acceleration, but segregation of tanks from transport service to meet civilian needs, to aid Britain and maintain domestic military needs, has drastically reduced the tanker fleet.

Tells Memorial Day Crowd to Rededicate Lives to America

was commander-in-chief of American armies at the time.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address, recited by James Stevenson, Bowman Street school pupil, was delivered in a distinguished fashion and recalled the ideals for which Lincoln stood.

James Brownscombe, of the American Legion, gave the celebrated "In Flanders Fields." No other work could have so poignantly brought home the meaning of Memorial day to the assembled people than those few lines by a great poet.

Following Barefoot's oration, Thomas M. Bell called the roll of soldier dead. He began with the name of William B. Hammett, last Mansfield Civil War veteran, who joined the ranks of the immortal Boys in Blue early this year.

Following the roll of the drum, Bell, adjutant of the Senior organization, read the names of eight Spanish American War veterans and the names of 32 World War veterans of Richland county, who died in the last year.

Mrs. Sarah V. Case, president of the Women's Relief Corps, read the names of Auxiliary dead, following which taps were sounded by American Legion buglers.

The American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps played "To the Colors" and after that the entire body joined in the singing of "America."

Rev. H. H. Ford chaplain of the day, in the absence of Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, gave the invocation and benediction.

The Memorial day parade, which preceded the cemetery services, began with the tolling of the old Mansfield fire bell in Central park.

A colorful parade formed on Park avenue west, marched to the square, then south on Main street. At Chestnut and South Main streets the parade turned east to the cemetery, and came to a halt before cemetery stadium.

Following the massed colors was the grand marshall and staff; the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps; World War Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, disabled veterans, Marine corps league, Sons of Union and other veterans, and Gold Star Mothers in cars.

The Mansfield Senior high school band provided color and fine marching music to the parade as it high-stepped along the route, viewed by hundreds of enthusiastic spectators.

Other participants in the parade were the John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed Junior high school bands, Boy and Girl Scouts, school children, Woman's Relief corps, Daughters of Union Veterans, and other Ladies auxiliaries in cars.

The parade halted before entering the cemetery and then to the beat of muffled drums slowly filed to the stadium.

Earlier in the day, emblems and wreaths had been placed at the monument to the Unknown Soldier at Central park by the American Legion auxiliary.

Mansfield Public school children had been asked by Supt. W. L. Miller to gather flowers for the graves of soldiers in Mansfield and Richland county. The Women's Relief corps made approximately 400 bouquets from the flowers gathered by the children which were placed throughout the Mansfield and rural cemeteries.

In charge of the Memorial day program were, Jacob Hetler, honorary president; J. G. Wallace, president; Charles R. Barefoot, orator; Rev. H. H. Ford, chaplain; Thomas M. Bell, grand marshall and Robert Jones, second grand marshall.

Officers of the Mansfield Community Memorial and Patriotic association are J. G. Wallace, president; F. Thane Shaw, vice president; Mary Beilstein, secretary; Winona Flory, treasurer, and J. Leo Hartmann, director.

CALL BISMARCK BIGGEST SHIP

British Officers Report Craft Displaced 50,000 Tons, Carried 2,400 Men.

tions, and speculation was stirred that extra forces might have been aboard for one of the following reasons:

1—To man prize ships the Bismarck and her accompanying cruiser Prinze Eugen were expected to capture and send back to German ports;

2—To provide garisons at Dakar or other French West African ports and perhaps lead Frenchmen there against Gen. Charles DaGaulle's "Free French" strongholds;

3—To furnish the personnel for a secret submarine base somewhere in the Atlantic

If there were such a plan, British sources declared, the sinking of the Bismarck smashed it. They said the 10,000-ton Prinz Eugen probably would be unable to carry it out alone, even if she continued to elude the British.

The German survivors, seeming still dazed from the havoc wrought on their ship last Tuesday by the powerful concentration of British warships which avenged the 42,000-ton Hood, said the Bismarck was smashed to pieces under their feet.

British seamen paid them this tribute: they went down fighting.

She never struck her ensign," a British officer declared. "She kept it up the whole time and stuck to her guns the best she was able."

"'It was hell,'" the British quoted one German as saying after he was dragged from the debris-littered sea "'Great holes burst out in us, and flames spread around every direction. We'd run this way and then something else would hit.'"

British officers declared huge shells from two British battleships "banged hell out of her" and then torpedoes from the cruiser Dorsetshire "lifted her bodily out of the water."

WORST AIR RAID BLASTS DUBLIN

52 Reported Killed, 200 Hurt In Nnight Attack by Unidentified Planes.

ing the wreckage for survivors.

The loss of life was the greatest Eire had suffered in an air raid since the war began. Unidentified planes bombed Dublin January 2 and 3, causing three deaths and injuring 12 persons, and bombs fell again May 5, but there were no casualties.

U. S. Minister David Gray said one of the three bombs dropped this morning fell about a quarter-mile from the legation, but no one inside was hurt.

Anti-aircraft batteries began firing just after midnight, when the planes first were heard No bombs fell until about 2 a m. Since only three fell then, police surmised that an anti-aircraft shell might have struck a plane, causing it to lose its bombs. They expressed doubt the bombing was intentional.

Two of the bombs fell on northside residential areas, demolishing homes for a distance of about 200 feet and burying their occupants. The third destroyed a number of shops about a half-mile from the center of the city.

Discussing the bombing, Gray said he had a good view from his bedroom window, after being awakened by the sound of planes and gunfire.

"Then," he said, "a bomb hit fairly close. I couldn't say how far because I haven't looked yet but I would guess it was not a matter of yards. Might have been a quarter of a mile."

He said he heard the noise of falling glass downstairs and went down to investigate.

Bombs Free Animals At Dublin Zoo.

DUBLIN—(INS)—Their barriers broken by bomb explosions, the animals of Dublin's zoo had a night of bewildered freedom last night.

But between the bombs and searchlights and hundreds of pursuers, the animals were glad to get back to the serenity of their cages today.

FAMILY STORAGE PLANT FORECAST

AUSTIN, Tex. — (UP) — Some day people will walk into a locker storage plant and pick up their Sunday roast beef just as handily as they now get mail from a postoffice box, W. R. Woolrich, University of Texas engineering dean predicts.

"A typical 300-locker refrigeration plant costs about $10,500 and rents between $10 and $15 a year per locker unit, including cost of operation," Dr. Woolrich said.

"Average locker users can store 400 to 500 pounds of food at an estimated saving on the family budget of $11 a year. The locker renter may make economical purchases of large quantities of perishable foods at favorable times."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, MAY 31, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—the holiday week-end with its traffic menaces will still be with us.

The new draft registration for the young fellows who have come of age in the last few months makes a few more girls worry about prospective dates.

Patriotic Faith

IN HIS column, "Perspective," Raymond Moley gives a quiet answer to the people who think in rigid terms of war and declare that a democracy that goes to war must forfeit its democracy forever in the very effort to defend it.

"If it comes," writes Mr. Moley of war, "it goes without saying that every American will help to the limit of his means, the limit of his energy, the limit of his spirit.

"And finally, if the issue is drawn, we can, if we will, behave toward one another as civilized men should behave. Santayana says of democracy that it requires the citizen to be half saint and half seer. Perhaps a simpler way to express that is to say that we must exercise self-restraint in our attitude toward our fellow citizens even in a war. That means, among other things, that the accident of birth, that religion and that former nationality do not constitute legitimate bases for judging Americans and Americanism. People are to be judged by their conduct alone, here and now.

"We shall lose everything if we succumb to the habits of prejudice and wrongdoing of those against whom we contend."

In other words, not the act of making war, but the way we behave and the thoughts we think while we conduct a war will determine its effect on our democracy. A people that cares enough and understands can fight a war if it has to and emerge still a democracy. Americans should know that from 1776 and 1860.

Broadcasting Priorities

WITH a limited number of hours in the day and a limited number of radio broadcasting waves available, "there is immediate need of a central clearance agency so that program priorities may be established," says Ed Kirby, National Association of Broadcasters official.

That seems to be a reasonable statement. The trouble starts when you come to the application of it.

What should radio be used for? Its mission is two-fold, says Kirby. It is to keep the nation informed of what is going on in the world, and also "to inspire loyalty to country and a pride in the army and navy." Wherefore:

"The radio must be denied to those whose alien-inspired demands for broadcasting time are for no other purpose than the promotion of civilan and military hysteria and confusion."

He insists that this isn't censorship; it is merely "the democratic way of finding fault and placing responsibility."

Maybe so. But there will be a lot of heated argument about this before the American radio industry and the American public are brought into agreement as to who shall be given the best radio time, and for what purposes.

Thrift In Our Industry

ANYWAY, this is going to be a grand opportunity to start saving nails and string again. A lot of old-timers are likely to have the time of their frugal lives.

The point is driven home by a Detroit story about the thrifty extreme to which automobile manufacturers are going, under the stress of national defense scarcities. One big company, getting into the game early, reports salvaging and reprocessing last year 244,000,000 pounds of useful material, mostly metals, for new use. One item was nearly a ton of solder "drippings." An industrial conservation expert says the recovery of small bits of aluminum, lead, tin, zinc, copper, antimony and nickel, formerly often wasted, is now almost 100 per cent. These are vital defense stuff. The task is accomplished mainly by keeping the various kinds of scrap materials separate and "uncontaminated" in the handling operations.

So vast is the turnover in American industry that scientific carelessness of this kind means the reclaiming and repeated use of enormous quantities of valuable metals. It will compensate for much of the current output of our defense industries which, unfortunately, may have to be shot away in situations where it cannot be reclaimed.

A friend who went all out for defense now says he's all in.

Soldier's Washington Week-End

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Trying to find an "average trainee" visiting Washington on week-end leave seems like trying to find a common denominator for the Eskimos, Hottentots and Boston Back Bay society. I never tried the latter, but I did try for an "average trainee."

I'm going to state three generalities as a result of my survey, and for anybody who might raise the question, I admit that it hardly can be called "scientific sampling." After all, it's a one-man staff that turns out this column and even if I worked three eight-hour shifts a day for a dozen week-ends I could hardly make an appreciable inroad on interviewing the thousands of lads in khaki who pour into this town from nearby training camps.

The generalities:

(1) Visiting draftees like to do just about the same things other sightseers and week-end vacationists do.

(2) They do not go in for a lot of shocking devilment. Even if they feel like that, it costs too much money.

(3) An amazingly few of them have dates. The reasons are that they can't afford it, don't know any girls, or have sweethearts back home and just simply aren't interested.

I might add that the "average trainee" has about five bucks to spend for a week-end jaunt, which, if he's just a private, is a week's pay.

Case Of A Man With $5.20.

There was Pvt. James Martin of Fort Meade. He arrived in town with $5.20 and four other fellows. They spent $1.25 apiece for rooms for the night (four of them slept on cots). They had one good meal, with some "fancy junk we don't get at camp"—cost $1.10. They averaged seven beers, 70 cents. The rest of it was spent on taxis, other transportation, hamburgers, cokes, and postcards for the family or girl friend. If one fellow went over, he borrowed a quarter or a half from one of his more affluent buddies.

Now what did they do for entertainment? They saw the Washington monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the Smithsonian museum, the Zoo, and a sandlot baseball game in one of the parks just off the Mall. Three of them went to a movie to see a picture ("Lady Eve") that they had heard was funny but which hadn't yet played the camp. They caught it at a neighborhood house at 25-cent time. At the Zoo, they met and talked to two "swell gals" who went sightseeing with them for half an nour and promised to get on the camp's dance-date list as soon as possible. One of the "swell gals" is a junior at Georgetown University—the other is a government stenographer.

From here on, the trainee week-enders seem to go up or down financially. Some spend a day and as little as $1.50 seeing Washington. Others have dates ($10 to $15 week-ends, the boys tell me) and go dancing and driving.

About half of the visiting draftees I have seen carry cameras and snap everything from a giggling lass in the amusement park to the orang-outang in the Zoo who has clowned his way to fame by eating most of his meals with a banana peeling for a hat . . . a hat that slides off frequently, but which he always solemnly replaces before he continues eating.

Are Well Behaved.

Of course, there are boys who get into trouble, but the percentages-in Washington, at least—are minute. A half dozen hard-bitten policemen who patrol the most unsavory sections of the city have told me the soldier boys are the best behaved generally of all they have to deal with.

Several of the lads I have talked with have told me their greatest regret is that they always miss "the big show"—Congress in session. Congress rarely works on week-ends—but if the complaints continue I'm going to petition the House and Senate to hold special Saturday night sessions, with all the trimmings — "for trainees only."

SO, YOU'RE drafted!

And you don't know whether to be glad or sorry, frightened or brave.

Well, take a tip from a veteran who has fought in many a war—BE GLAD! Be glad you are drafted for a cause as decent and proud as that which lies before you.

For remember, you'd have been drafted anyway. No man can enter life without being drafted. Before you're fairly rid of childhood, causes will be clutching at you, temptations will be setting their snares for you, a whole new world will be clamoring for your attention. And, whether you realize it or not, your days of freedom will be over, for every one of these new interests will have your number and be clamoring for your service.

But now a greater service has swept all those other demands for the time and claimed your loyalty. You've been made a soldier of these United States. You've been drafted to defend those ideals your fathers fought to preserve. And I'm telling you again, be glad!

For we all must use our Youth in some way. And some of us waste it frivolously. And some of us drudge through it drearily. And others spend their time complaining because their daydreams do not come true.

BUT TO YOU THERE HAS BEEN GIVEN A DUTY TO PERFORM, DEFINITE AND GLORIOUS. FOR A YEAR OF YOUR LIFE, AT LEAST, YOU WILL BE REAL, NOT A VAGUE MASS OF AIMLESS IMPULSES AND RESENTMENTS. FOR A YEAR YOU WILL BE A SYMBOL OF ALL THAT IS BEST IN AMERICAN MANHOOD . . . A DEFENSE OF ALL THAT IS HIGHEST IN AMERICAN LIFE.

That's a great thing to happen to anyone. It's far better luck than most of us can ever know. For most of us make our own destinies in these early years, and shabby things they are at best. But your feet have been set upon a higher trail . . . your ears have heard a greater challenge.

SO GO, AND BE GLAD!

War is horrible. Defense is wasteful. Loneliness eats into the soul. But since these things are to be faced, face them with your head high and your heart resolute. Believe me, you would have had to face them anyway in some form. Only now you face them with glory!

GO ON AND BE GLAD!

Be glad that you stand for the highest and holiest things left on earth. Be glad that your Youth has become a flame which lights the darkest places of the human heart in its most fearsome hour. Be glad that you are fit to be a flame.

And God bless you, son!

Let's Look Around

Across the Border Into Tijuana

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

TIJUANA, Mexico—A short ferry trip to Coronado and a 15-mile drive along the Silver Strand highway, which extends narrowly between San Diego bay and the Pacific ocean, brings us into this Mexican border town of Tijuana, for no particular reason—except, as our informant puts it, "everybody goes to Tijuana"—which, rather surprisingly, is pronounced teah-wanah.

Whatever prosperity Tijuana enjoys may be credited almost entirely to a finely developed ability to lure American dollars in exchange for Mexican-flavored entertainment and as weird a collection of curios, souvenirs, gift articles and miscellaneous merchandise as probably has been brought together anywhere in the world.

The first stop brings a horde of gaily attired street vendors who urgently press the merits of the conglomerate stock, while others insist you will be everlastingly unhappy unless you don a sombrero and have your picture taken while seated in an ancient cart to which is attached a tired looking burro.

Entrance to Mexico is made surprisingly easy at this border point, with no passport required and nothing happening, except that your automobile insurance is not effective in Mexico and that you travel "at your own risk."

FIRST to attract notice upon entering Tijuana town is the array of small offices on both sides of the street, with signs, "Free Information," or "Legal Advice." These turn out to be offices of Mexican lawyers whose cards announce "Marriages and Divorces, Friendy Service"—so, whether the knot is to be tied or untied, Tijuana's "friendly service" is ready and waiting.

Other than on Saturday night and Sunday, Tijuana is uncrowded and high pressure salesmanship is concentrated on the few tourists who wander around from mart to mart.

But each Saturday night and Sunday afternoon is declared a "fiesta day" in Tijuana and it is then that American cars and dollars pour into town by the thousands and a week-end of revelry and roistering ensues.

A booklet devoted to extolling the attractions of Tijuana makes a vast understatement when it says: "American money is freely accepted"—A fairer statement would be "American money is eagerly sought."

A tourist crossing the border for only a few hours' look-around may bring back merchandise costing not more than five dollars without paying duty. Those who stay in Mexico more than 24 hours are allowed up to $100 in duty-free purchases. Not being subject to revenue tax, popular brands of American cigarets are sold in Mexico for 10 cents a pack, with a limit of four packs to each returning tourist.

A FIFTEEN-MILE DRIVE further down Mexico's peninsula of Southern California brings into sudden and surprising view the elaborate Rosarita Beach hotel, which, until a couple of years ago had been a country club, on a site that appears to have been primarily chosen for its exceptional ocean view. Its magnificent furnishings and ornate surroundings seem scarcely justified in its rather remote location—but that's a matter for the owners to decide—and it at least gave opportunity to experience a typical Mexican luncheon.

TRAFFIC NOTE: Pedestrians have the right of way on San Diego crosswalks where there are no traffic lights. Prominently displayed signs in the center of streets say: "STOP When Pedestrians Are In Crosswalk"—and, believe it or not, motorists STOP.

California insists on being different—where yellow lines are used to indicate dangerous places on the highways, signs read: "Passing permitted when yellow line is in YOUR lane"—which is exactly opposite to the rule in other states.

A WEEK would be all too short a time to spend in San Diego and vicinity, but we are being told about some other places of interest in California, so we'll have to be hurrying along.

FDR's Defense Address Sets Up New U. S. Attitude Toward War

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEVER in his experience, recalled White House Secretary Stephen Early, had he seen the President put so much time on a speech.

One reason Mr. Roosevelt was taking so long, Early assumed, was that each day 12,000 citizens were writing and wiring him suggestions for a foreign policy and he was looking through the mesages for ideas.

Also, moves were being made in three totalitarian countries which observers suspected were intended to influence the speech.

Germany — In a rare speech, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder warned that convoying by America would be "an open war act and bare unprovoked attack."

He added: "The worry of the war agitators is not a German attack but that they have not succeeded in creating the desired incident."

Japan—As Nipponese blue-jackets in Indo-China seized $10,000,000 worth of American war materials destined for China, a Navy spokesman declared that "the Imperial Navy is always prepared to meet any eventuality."

France—Ambassador Henry-Haye of the Vichy government handed the State Department a note that the French fleet and French colonies would not be surrendered to Germany — or any other power. The U. S. has been much interested in the status of France's Martinique and French West Africa.

When the President spoke Tuesday night his remarks were translated and broadcast in at least 23 languages and dialects.

To many questions in American minds he offered these answers:

What Are Adolf Hitler's Objectives?

"The first and fundamental fact is that what started as a European war has developed, as the Nazis always intended it should develop, into a world war for world domination."

The Nazis' plans do not stop at Suez, he said, because they "can never achieve their objective of world domination unless they first obtain control of the seas . . . To achieve it they must capture Great Britain."

Just Where Do America's Interests Extend?

"It is unmistakably apparent to all of us that, unless the advance of Hitlerism is forcibly checked now, the Western Hemisphere will be in range of the Nazi weapons of destruction.

"Nazi occupation of Iceland or bases in Greenland would bring war close to our continental shores . . . Equally the Azores and Cape Verde Islands, if occupied or controlled by Germany, would directly endanger the freedom of the Atlantic and our own physical safety."

What Should America Do?

"First . . . we shall actively resist his (Hitler's) every attempt to gain control of the seas. We insist upon the vital importance of keeping Hitlerism away from any point in the world which could be used and would be used as a base of attack against the Americas.

"Second . . . we shall give every possible assistance to Britain . . . All additional measures necessary to deliver the goods will be taken.

"The present rate of Nazi sinkings . . . is more than twice the combined British and American output of merchant ships today. We can answer this peril . . . by speeding up and increasing our great shipbuilding program; and by helping to cut down the losses on the high seas."

"I have tonight issued a proclamation that an unlimited national emergency exists and requires the strengthening of our defense to the extreme limit of our national power and authority." (America had been in "limited" emergency.)

The President said later that he had no immediate intention of seeking change in the neutrality law.

What Will Be Expected Of Americans?

"The nation will expect all individuals and all groups to play their full parts, without stint, and without selfishness, and without doubt that our democracy will triumphantly survive.

"The actual production and transportation of the machinery of defense must not be interrupted by disputes between capital and capital, labor and labor, or capital and labor." (In the last category he apparently was referring to such strikes as the shipyard tie-up in San Francisco.)

"The nation-wide machinery for conciliation and mediation of industrial disputes . . . must be used promptly—and without stoppage of work." (The AFL promptly promised disciplinary action against any of its unions that call strikes before allowing government agencies a chance to adjust the disputes.)

What Kind of a Peace Will We Seek?

"We will not accept a Hitler dominated world. And we will not accept a world, like the post-war world of the 1920's, in which the seeds of Hitlerism can again be planted and allowed to grow.

"We will accept only a world consecrated to:

Freedom of speech and expression,

Freedom of every person to worship God in his own way,

Freedom from want,

Freedom from terrorism."

(Britain's Foreign Minister Eden said later that "under the system of free economic competition Germany must play a part" in the post-war world. "But," he added, "we must never forget that Germany is the worst master Europe has yet known.")

Reactions.

Washington legal experts believed that all Mr. Roosevelt had done for the time being was to lay the foundation for extraordinary powers, which he might or might not use—according to what the Axis did.

Apparently the ordinary citizen could count on listening to the radio, cooking with electricity and going to the bank as usual for some time to come, although the President's emergency powers might affect any of these—and many another part of normal life—in the future.

Comments on FDR's speech:

Berlin radio: "Worn-out battle cry."

Rome radio: "Cheap."

London Evening Standard: "Amounted to an iron pact."

Senator Wagner: "Noble and momentous."

Alf Landon: "End of democratic government in the United States temporarily at least."

Wendell Willkie: "What we needed to hear."

Wednesday night, Senator Wheeler called on FDR to "reassert his repeated promises not to send American boys to fight and die on foreign soil in a foreign war."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The Blue Bowl restaurant in East 48th street offers an innovation in culture that is not to be found in every place that caters to the inner man. Diners who glance up from their salads rest their eyes on oil paintings and watercolors provided by some of the country's best artists.

In other words, the restaurant is also a sort of gallery. Artists exhibit their canvases there, by appointment, and appointments for more than a year in advance have been made. The Blue Bowl is in its tenth season of devoting its wall space, which is extensive, to the showings of recognized artists.

It works like this. If you are fortunate enough to gain a showing there, your work is on view for one month. There is space for perhaps 30 average-size landscapes or portraits. The idea for a gallery restaurant came by chance to Anna Hunn and Carol Knox, who own the Blue Bowl, because their idea of interior decoration hit a snag after the restaurant was completed. They ran out of money. Above the dark pine paneling was admirable space for the showing of prints and pictures. Their architect suggested that they borrow some of his panels, which they did. After that it was only a step to the system of exhibiting well-known artists. Wyman Adams, whose portraits are well known; Paul Bronson, noted for his animal paintings; Alice Judson, whose watercolor scenes of New England are well liked, have shown there.

The newest exhibition reveals about 25 oil paintings and several watercolors by Frances Raiff Wood. These are landscapes and still life scenes, most of which were painted around Old Lyme, Conn., where she spends her summers, and Rutherford, N. J., where she lives. The landscapes are of Connecticut ponds and outstanding examples of New England colonial architecture. Many old churches and homes that have existed for more than a century have been her subjects. Frances Raiff Wood is a graduate of Sweetbriar. She is married and has two children. Next to painting, her favorite study is the culture and arrangement of flowers.

Now that Hess has escaped to Scotland by parachute the skies around Hollywood for the next few months will be filled with actors dropping out of planes for the benefit of the cameras. Already Warner Brothers have assigned Frank Wilcox to the Hess role in "Underground," a new anti-Nazi film—a part that was hastily written into the script by screen writers the day after the Hess incident broke. This establishes something of a record in bringing the movies up to the level of the daily headlines.

Ed East, the radio comedian and emcee, can hang up his shingle in Indiana any time he gets tired of the radio business. He was trying cases before he was trying gags.

A Naval Cancellation

WHEN air strategists were faced with the job of ordering planes best suited for defending U. S. shores, the position of America between two wide oceans made the choice obvious: long-range patrol bombers.

Last year when Britons cried for warplanes, we rushed off what types were available.

RAF pilots were a bit dismayed by some of the fighter planes we sent. Certain Britons contended that some fighters didn't have the fire-power to stay in the same air with German Messerschmitts.

Britain, however, was delighted with our patrol bombers. Two of these patrol bombers were the twin-motored Lockheed land plane, which they renamed the Hudson, and the twin-motored Consolidated flying boat which they renamed the Catalina.

RAF airmen cruising over the Norwegian port of Bergen in a Hudson noted the new German battleship Bismarck and the German cruiser Prinz Eugen in harbor. This was big news, for the 35,000-ton Bismarck apparently had kept close to its German berth since completion. Later, airmen saw the two warships breaking out into the Atlantic.

British Cruisers Waiting.

The German ships, slipping through sleet and mist, circled way north of Iceland to elude the British blockade. Two British cruisers were laying in wait between Iceland and Greenland.

The graceful, old 42,000-ton British battle cruiser Hood, largest warship in the world, the new 35,000-ton Prince of Wales and many other British warships were converging on the area.

As the German ships were passing down the strait Saturday morning, May 24, they encountered the British battleships. A duel began while the ships were still fourteen miles apart. The Bismarck and the Prince of Wales received wounds, but the Hood caught a salvo from the Bismarck that touched off her magazine. The goliath was blown to bits. British writers called it a "one in a million" shot.

The Germans fled southward. Early next day they disappeared in the mist. For 24 hours contact was lost. Then on Monday morning one of the long-range Catalina planes came upon the Bismarck 550 miles off the southern tip of England. The Prinz Eugen had vanished. Many huge units of the British fleet soon were closing in.

Torpedo Planes Cripple Bismarck.

British torpedo-carrying planes—the Fairey Swordfishes—arrived and sent torpedoes skimming across the water into the Bismarck's side. One shot smashed the propeller and rudder.

The Bismarck began yawing in wild circles. Britons, realizing that the ship finally was at bay, did not care to risk another battleship to finish her. So, as the torpedo-planes kept jabbing, smaller torpedo-hurling warships circled her like Indians attacking a wagon train. The cruiser Dorsetshire apparently delivered the coup de grace.

The loss of the Hood meant the first battle line of the British fleet had been reduced by one-sixtenth, while the loss of the Bismarck meant Germany's front line had been reduced by one-fourth.

Germany was left with three capital ships: the Tirpitz, a brand-new sistership of the Bismarck, and the 26,000-ton sisterships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst which the British say have been receiving a battering at Brest for the past two months. The 10,000-ton German pocket-battleship Graf Spee was scuttled off South America in 1939.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I promise that," I said readily, knowing that the question of my safety was now transferred, with or without my consent, to the capable hands of the owner of Hotel Lansfield. "And my answer to your question is a qualified 'yes.' I am not sure that the man is on the balcony, but a moment ago I heard a suspicious sound from that direction."

"Then," he said, "I know what to do. And—do not fear—I shall do nothing to alarm him. But I wish you would be ready to leave this room—ostensibly. You can come back to it at any time, as I shall show you presently, but you must not remain here unprotected."

"I am ready to do anything you wish, as long as the man on the balcony does not guess what we are planning," I said. He smiled his acceptance, then murmured an additional word of caution.

"Will you and Olga chatter about something casual," he asked, "keeping your voices muted for the most part, but occasionally raising them sufficiently to have the tones at least heard upon the balcony?"

"Of course," I murmured back, and Olga smiled her acquiescence.

"Pretend to pay no attention to my telephoning," he added.

"We will follow your directions exactly," I told him. Then he sauntered to the telephone, while I turned to Olga with a comment upon the gay little party we had just left. She answered me in kind, and we kept up the lively chatter for which Philip had asked.

Gives Orders to Manager.

"The manager, please, for Mr. Veritzen," he began, and then we listened to his rapid fire istructions.

"This room is not in the order it should be," he said. "I do not care to see the housekeeper about it. Will you kindly come up yourself as soon as possible? I didn't get you out of bed, I trust."

His tone and manner clearly showed that he did not at all care to what inconvenience the manager was put, and he hardly waited for the man's perfunctory answering assurance."

"Glad of that," he said carelessly. 'How soon can you get up here?"

"The matter principally is drafts," he said. "These French doors appear to be in terrible shape. And—I wish you'd cut that ten minutes to five. Good-bye."

"Lazy, temperamental devil!" he said. "I've two minds to discharge him."

"Think it over, my Philip," his wife advised softly, and the creases vanished from his forehead as he smiled at her.

Cuts Off View From Outside.

"You and Madge, here, would find excuses for the devil in person," he said. Then he swung around and scrutinized the French doors.

"Those doors are drafty," he pronounced. "They act as if they were going to swing inward any minute. Did you lock them properly?"

"Locked and bolted," I returned. "But the wind still comes through."

"We'll soon remedy that, when Milner gets up here," he promised. "In the meantime, closing those draperies ought to help. It really is terribly drafty in here."

He walked lazily toward the French doors, and again my breath almost stopped, although I had his word that he would not go out upon the balcony.

But I was immeasurably relieved, nevertheless, when he loosened the heavy draperies from their side fastenings and swept them together in such fashion that no eye from outside could possibly see anything inside the room.

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER III

"I remember Emma," Cherry had stammered, almost faint with this final excitement. There had not been any especial stigma attached to her name then; she might have been one of the Victor street girls! She had fixed widened eyes, in a paling face, upon Mother Superior.. But disappointingly, there had seemed to be nothing more to add to this. The nun had merely made her a parting gift of special medals that had been blessed in Rome, and had taken her downstairs for final farewells.

Sister Fabian and Sister Gervase were both indisposed on the train. They did not want any supper; they had the three berths made up immediately, and Cherry left them to the little room, found a window seat in the empty length of the car and sat, fascinated, watching the landscape flying by.

She jumped when old Dr. O'Connor touched her arm, realized that she was hungry, went with him through the swaying train to the dining car and was so rapt over its light and warmth and the bewildering obligation of ordering something from a menu for the first time in her life that tea and biscuits and honey were all she could murmur when her companion poised his pencil over the order blank.

Both little nuns were tucked up in bed when she cautiously entered the drawing room. Cherry had the lounge, and slept the sleep of youth and fatigue within its narrow boundaries. Breakfast was another adventure—such smoking coffee, such buttered toast—and the long day that dragged for almost everyone else on board was too short for her.

But at a quarter past seven o'clock—for the train was late—when they descended somewhat grimy and jaded at the Oakland Mole, sheer nervous excitement and expectation had exhausted her. She was pale, too much absorbed in her own emotions to notice the effect of her hat and her luggage upon the Marshbanks' handsome young French chauffeur. He was quickly identified by the wearied Sisters, and Cherry in her turn identified the nice middle-aged maid who had accompanied him. The nuns went their way, and Cherry, looking from the windows of the magnificent car, saw for the first time the diamond arch of the great bridge, the further tiara of the Golden Gate span rising above the dark, troubled waters of the bay, and San Francisco's towered hills silhouetted against a somber and angry west.

May, the housemaid, who had been sent to meet her, was really, Cherry discovered, a Mrs. Mott who had two almost grown boys. But she was "May" to the whole household, she said goodhumoredly, and Miss Cherry had better call her so.

"I'm not going to live at the Marshbanks'," Cherry told her. "I'm going to take a position."

"The judge said you'd be with us only a few days. He is going to play bridge somewhere tonight, and he's having his dinner at seven. Mrs. Marshbanks and Miss Amy are going out to dinner before a party, and he's to bring them home dear knows when. It's a coming-out party for Miss Patsy Randall."

"I know. A debut. Then Miss Marshbanks is a debutante." Cherry brightened, eyes shining in a grimy pale face. 'I'" bet she has a beautiful dress—I suppose she has," she said, hastily substituting the latter phrase for one of which Sister Seraphine certainly would not have approved.

"She's got two," the maid said, a little grimly; "she'd not made up her mind when I left which one she'd wear!"

Cherry was not only imaginative by nature, but she had a quick intuitive sense of what others might be feeling.

"Oh, and you had to come away to meet me!" she apologized quickly. Her companion gave her an odd look.

"I didn't mind that, my dear," she said. "Here we are," May added, as the car stopped at the foot of an imposing flight of stone steps. "I'm going to slip upstairs, and I'll not see you again unless you need me. Molly'll show you your room. I'm usually with the old lady after dinner, but she's away and I'm going to a movie tonight. You ask Molly for anything you want."

Cherry and her patent leather bag were abandoned for just a few moments in the big entrance hall. She had time only for a breath-taking impression of such spaciousness and beauty and color as she had never seen before, of soft rugs beneath her feet and dimly lighted arches leading to great dimly lighted rooms on all sides, of potted palms and bursts of winter flowers, before Judge Marshbanks came forward to take possession of her, and confide her to the care of Molly, a pretty maid with very black eyes and a very white skin, a white lace apron and cap, and a neat little gray moire uniform.

By this time the girl was too much dazed to believe her senses. She followed Molly upstairs to an incredibly luxurious big room with an unbelievably complete bathroom next to it, brushed her hair and washed her face in a condition of complete bewilderment, and descended again, still under Molly's escort, to the dining room where it appeared that she and her host were to be the only persons at dinner.

He was halfway through his meal; hers was served to her fresh and hot. But she was unable to eat. The quality of the Italian lace that was spread on the polished wood, the beauty of china and crystal, the soft light of candles were such as Cherry had never seen in her life before, nor ever dreamed could exist, and the numbling sense of being only in a dream made it impossible for her to taste or swallow anything. Even the food was beyond what had been her most fantastic imaginings; a spoonful of whipped cream spreading itself upon her cupful of pale green soup, her butter pat sweet and hard and twisted like a tiny calla lily, her hot roll made into a lover's knot and powdered with poppy seeds, her game garnished with crisp curls of cress with a buttery crisp brown sauce and a clover leaf of tart jelly.

"Don't you like that?" the judge asked, looking over his paper.

"It's wonderful. She made a valiant attack upon it.

"Know what it is?"

'No, sir. Chicken, I guess."

"That's partridge. If you don't like it Martin will get you an omelette."

"Oh, no, please! It's delicious." To her own disguest and surprise, her voice thickened. But he did not seem to notice it, and when he returned to his paper she made herself finish her dinner, and felt her nerves more steady.

A sudden sense that she did not belong in this scene, that it had nothing to do with her, that she never should have entered it, had almost wrecked her self-control for a moment. With the blinding force of a revelation she knew that her rumpled childish dress was absurd, that the dowdy hat she had left upstairs, the bulging shabby patent leather bag, the ugly school shoes and cotton gloves and stockings had no place in this house, and were like nothing that had ever been here before. She knew, inexperienced as she was—she had read it in her host's first look—that her shabbiness and homeliness had shocked him. He had seen her only once before, flushed with triumph after the school play, made up into her handsomest self as a brown-skinned Indian girl gay in feathers and fringes.

The knowledge that came to her in this flash of shame and pain made the big dining room chair in which she sat a seat of torture to her, dried her throat so that she could not swallow, caused her fingers to feel clumsy and helpless, to drop knives and spill water and crumble bread untidily.

But she did her best to conquer the feeling, and was quite calm when a young man came in, unannounced, and drew a chair to Judge Marshbank's side.

The judge, after a casual friendly greeting, glanced over at her and said, "Mr. Coates, Cherry," and then, "This is Miss Rawlings, Kelly."

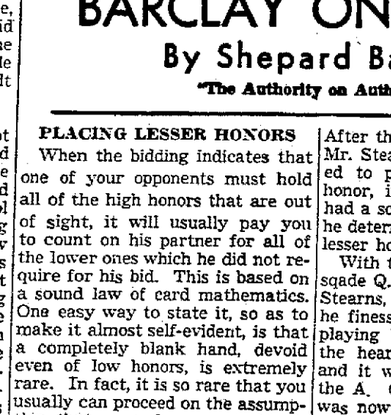
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLACING LESSER HONORS

When the bidding indicates that one of your opponents must hold all of the high honors that are out of sight, it will usually pay you to count on his partner for all of the lower ones which he did not require for his bid. This is based on a sound law of card mathematics. One easy way to state it, so as to make it almost self-evident, is that a completely blank hand, devoid even of low honors, is extremely rare. In fact, it is so rare that you usually can proceed on the assumption that no such complete blank exists anywhere around the table.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	1 NT	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Against the strong opposition of Charles Lochridge in the West and Samuel Fry, jr., in the East, this hand was bid boldly by both Sherman Stearns in the South and John R. Crawford in the North to score a Vanderbilt cup gain. After the club 3 was led to the A, Mr. Stearns took stock. He decided to play East for every high honor, in order for him to have had a sound vulnerable bid. Hence he determined to play West for the lesser honors, the jacks.

With this foundation, he led the sqade Q. East ducked, so did Mr. Stearns, and it rode through. Then he finessed the diamond Q. Now playing West for a jack, he led the heart 8, put on dummy's 4, and it was high enough to force the A. Game plus an extra trick was now sure. East returned his club J, and Mr. Stearns promptly completed reaping a crop of four tricks in hearts, plus two each in the other suits.

That made profitable business, since at the other table of the team match North and South reached only 2-No Trumps and made only enough tricks for that contract.

The question of the Ohio State league's strikeout record has been settled once, and it looks like for all.

Eddie Evans, Toledo youngster, set down 23 Tiffin batters the other evening for Lima, and helped his receiver, Bill Stevens, from Springfield, to a league record of 23 chances.

The old record for strikeouts was 19, set by Barney Fletcher of Findlay against Lima last season. Fletcher now is with Indianapolis.

Swing and sway with Eddie Evans was the theme song of this ball game.

Mowin' 'em down was Eddie, and pickin' 'em up was Stevens. And the two of them were not only setting records for the Ohio State league, they were posting new marks for all organized baseball.

Stevens had 21 putouts and two assists.

The very good crowd at the Fairground yesterday encouraged E. M. Miller, director of the International Racing association to make plans for two more speed tests on the Richland county oval.

Drivers were loud in their praise of Mansfield. "It's a good town," they said, "and we'll be glad to come back."

* * *

Dick Jones, the Honeyboy, believes that with another fight or two under his belt he'll be able to go just as good as he did a few years ago when he was battling Billy Conn for the middleweight championship of Pittsburgh.

His timing and judgment of distance were off the other evening in the main bout at the armory, which was to be expected.

Fighters can't lay off for a matter of months, and in Honeyboy's case it was six, without losing that touch. And Honeyboy had very little chance to get that touch back. Although he was training for more than a month, he had no more opposition in that training ring than a punching bag. It turned out all right though, because in the last two rounds of his scrap with Frankie Williams of Akron, Frankie was no more than a punching bag himself.

Indians' Lead Cut To Two

Tribe Trimmed Twice By Chicago Sox.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Indians came home today with their tomahawks full of nicks and their American league lead cut to two games.

Opening a two-week home stand with a three-game series against the Yankees, they sent portsider Al Milnar against Lefty Gomez, in the latter's first appearance against Cleveland this season.

Chicago's bounding White Sox trimmed the Tribe 7-1 and 5-2 in yesterday's double header, and left the Indians with only two wins in their last seven games—Bob Feller's victories over the Browns and the Tigers. The Yankees are only four games behind Cleveland, and the Tigers four and one-half.

Ted Lyons pitched five-hit ball to win the first game yesterday, while the Sox were lacing Al Smith with seven hits and seven runs in four innings, after which Ken Jungels held them in check. They made it certain in the fourth with four runs, three of them the result of Joe Kuhel's homer.

In this contest the Tribe's only run came in the first, when Lou Boudreau singled, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored as Gee Walker laid down a roller.

Kuhel's second homer of the day and his sixth of the season opened the Sox attack in the second game, and gave Chicago a two-run start in the first inning. Tresh's double, Lee's single and an error by Hemsley gave them another in the second.

Jim Bagby had to give way to Clint Brown in the third, but the White Sox got to Brown for one run in the fourth, and took another from Joe Heving in the eighth. Bagby was charged with the loss.

The Tribe's scoring in this game came in the third inning, when Mack singled and Hemsley hit his first homer of the year. The Indians got only four hits off Thornton (Lefty) Lee.

Memorial day proved once again that a lot of fans like their baseball in double doses, 229,830 spectators jamming the parks in eight major league cities for the traditional holiday doubleheaders.

It also uncovered the almost forgotten fact that the St. Louis Cardinals can be beaten, even though this point was proved only with difficulty.

The Cardinals captured their first game, 4-1, to extend their winning streak to 11, but in the finale were nosed out by the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, in a 13-inning nightcap.

The second-place Brooklyn Dodgers ran their victory string to seven by crushing the New York Giants 8-0 and 6-2 at the Polo Grounds.

The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies broke their losing strings at the expense of each other. The Phils took the first game, 6-5. The Braves put a stop to this by taking the second game, 4 to 1.

The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates also divided in their party, the Cubs winning the first game, 7-6, and the Pirates the nightcap, 5-4.

The Philadelphia Athletics walloped the Washington Senators twice, 7-4 and 14-4, to sink them deeper in the cellar.

The Detroit Tigers swept two from the St. Louis Browns, 6-5 and 10-6. In Boston the New York Yankees won the opener 4-3 and the Red Sox the finale 13-0.

Winner of Fairground Race Greets Fans

Rose and Davis Divide Honors In Indianapolis Race

was some question today as to how formal credit would be distributed for the two-man victory of Mauri Rose and Floyd Davis in the 29th annual 500-mile Memorial day automobile race.

Rose, a trouble-shooter in an Indianapolis airplane motor plant, drove the winning car the last 322½ miles after Davis, a Springfield, Ill., contractor, had qualified and started. The winning machine averaged 115.117 miles an hour, the second fastest time in the race's history.

It was the second time since the race first was run in 1911 that the question of dividing credit between drivers of the winning automobile had arisen. In 1924 the problem was solved by designating L. L. Corum and Joe Boyer co-winners after Boyer completed the grind which Corum started.

Ted Doescher, chief steward of the track, said the official designation would be made late today at the expiration of the 24-hour period for filing protests

Rose's original car, with which he captured the pole position, was forced out by carburetor trouble at 152 miles. Then he shifted to the four-cylinder speedster driven by Davis. Both cars were owned by Lou Moore, Indianapolis, three-time winner and now retired.

Rex Mays, Glendale, Calif., repeated as runner-up with an average of 114,813 and Ten Horn, Paterson, N. J., was third with a speed of 113.864.

Everett Saylor of Dayton, O., only first-time starter, was the most severely hurt in accidents. He was reported in "fair" condition early today at Methodist hospital.

Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, the only three-time winner besides Moore, went out of the contest at 380 miles when his car skidded into an inside retaining wall. He suffered severe back injuries.

The start of the race, witnessed by an estimated 150,000 persons, was delayed an hour by a $150,000 fire which swept 24 garages and burned three cars.

Whitman Wins Feature Race On Holiday Auto Speed Card

A crowd of approximately 4,000 persons looked on yesterday as George Whitman won the feature event of the automobile races at the Fairground.

Out in front all the way was George as he toured the 15-mile stretch of track in 15:30.1. Harold Shaw was second, Chuck Reese third, Frank Lipto fourth, Chuck Walters fifth and Jim Cushion sixth.

Whitman won his preliminary five-mile heat in 4:50 9, and in the same heat Harold Shaw was second, and Rocky Eagle third.

Reed won his preliminary heat in 4:51 87 with Johnny Walters second, and Frank Lipto third, and the other elimination event went to Cushion in 5:08.48, with Gunyan second and Buckly Sherman third.

Sherman chalked up the best time in the qualifying trials with 28 seconds and 55 hundredths for the mile. All drivers made better time in the qualifiers than in the main events, as they battled for pole positions.

They were really wheeling them in the qualifiers, taking the turns on a skid, and honing those babies down the straightway. In the big race, with positions already well determined, it wasn't necessary for them to take the turns at such high speed.

* * *

Only accidents of the day came after the race was over when Whitman went through the fence on the back turn as he idled his motor down for the stop, and in the last lap of the second elimination when two cars broke the fence on the back turn.

Taking a 6 to 3 lead by the fifth inning, Fredericksburg lost out in the sixth when Ontario rallied to score four runs.

TERMINATES JOB

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Frank J. Stockman of Walla Walla, Wash., recently obtained a new job—but it lasted only 30 minutes. Stockman reported for work on the first morning with a crew setting power poles. He ran across the highway to get his lunch pail and was apparently in such a hurry he forgot to look for cars. He was expected to recover in a Walla Walla hospital.

GALION WOMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

GALION—Mrs. Marietta Byrns, 74, died Friday at her home, two miles west of Galion. She suffered a stroke last Monday.

Surviving are one son, Edward, at home; and a grandson, Edward Franklin Byrns.

Mrs. Byrns was active in a number of organizations. She was a member of the First Methodist church, the Woman's Benefit association, the Maccabees, the Woman's Relief corps, the Daughters of Liberty, the American Legion auxiliary, and the Daughters of Union Veterans.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Volk funeral home. Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Rose Sweeps From Behind to Win at Indianapolis

Mauri Rose, an engineer in an airplane motor factory, drives the winning car across the finish line, above, in the annual 500-mile Memorial day speed classic at the Indianapolis Speedway. In the lead at the 125-mile mark, Rose was forced to abandon his own car when it went to pieces. He then took over that of Floyd Davis, driving in 14th position, and went on to win. The co-winners, Rose, left, and Davis, are shown, inset, with the trophy they won in addition to $20,000 in cash.

Reds Take Holiday Nightcap

Win Second Game of Season From Cards.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds continue their so-far unprofitable feud with the St. Louis Cardinals today.

Either Johnny Vander Meer or Gene Thompson is the pitcher. Lon Warneke is the Cardinal choice.

Yesterday's 13-inning 3-2 victory in the nightcap at St. Louis marked the second win for the Reds over the Cards this year and it also broke the Cards' string at 11 straight decisions. Number 11 was their 4-1 victory in the first game of the Memorial Day double-header.

Young Elmer Riddel, Ival Goodman, and Frank McCormick were the individual heroes of the nightcap. Elmer entered in the ninth after the Cards had tied the score at two all and knocked out Bucky Walters. He allowed one hit in the 4½ innings of earning his pay.

In the 13th Ival singled and McCormick knocked him in with the winning run with a double.

Harry Gumbert, late of the New York Giants, pitched down Paul Derringer in the first game, giving the Reds just four hits and one unearned run. Harry also contributed a home run with a man on base to aid his own cause in the fifth, and Estel Crabtree did the same in the eighth to make victory certain.

However, neither Gumbert nor Sam Nahem and Ira Hutchinson, the latter the St. Louis nightcap pitchers, could keep Chuck Aleno off the bases. T he rookie third baseman got one of the four hits in the opener and two more in the second to run his string of hitting games to 16.

* * *

Riddle's competent relief job upset Manager Bill McKechnie's pitching plans. The young fellow was scheduled to pitch today but he earned a day off.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Mike Jacobs (and he's the boss, boys) has ruled there'll be no Billy Soose-Tony Zale fight to clear up the middleweight muddle—for the simple reason that Soose is pledged to give Ken Overlin a return shot first. . . . Ft. Worth expects to shatter all previous attendance records for the National Open—4,500 tickets already sold. . . . The Detroit Tigers still insist Bobby Feller is trained down too finely, but they aren't getting any seconds from the other American league clubs.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Art Cohn, Oakland Tribune: "Seems to me that a bout in which the Messrs. Louis and Baer heard a bell that did not ring in the first round and Mr. Donovan did not hear a bell that did ring in the sixth, should be called Nobell prize fight."

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

Bob Pastor returns to the fistic wars at Griffith stadium, Washington, June 16, against Buddy Knox. . . . We ran into Horace Stoneham in a night spot and he swears he's ready to take the rubber off his bankroll any time the other clubs will talk business with Terry. . . . Truth is, Terry was so high and mighty when he was winning that none of the other clubs want to give him a break. . . . Ace Parker's broken ankle is mending nicely and he'll definitely be back in the football Dodgers' line-up this fall.

When Connie Mack is honored at the June 4 night game at Chicago, six members of the White Sox will be leading the cheering—Jimmy Dykes, Coach Mule Haas, Dario Lodigiani, Lee Ross, Edgar Smith and Bill Dietrich—all of whom were tutored by the tall tutor in their early days. . . . The Johns Hopkins football people are much disturbed over reports that Jack McNally, who formerly quarterbacked under Dick Harlow at Western Maryland, will shift to Allegheny college. McNally even was invited to a personal conference with the president of Johns Hopkins.

Oilers Win In Big 8th

FINDLAY—The Findlay Oilers trailed the Mansfield Braves into the eighth inning here yesterday, but in the last of the eighth things happened, and when it was all over, the Oilers had five runs and the ball game.

Up to the fatal eighth, Patterson, the Mansfield pitcher, had everything under control, and was leading 3-0.

But the Oilers go to him for two earned runs in the eighth, and got two more men on base.

Then came the explosion.

Ruley, Findlay pitcher, hit a liner to right that Mutryn got his hands on but couldn't hold. Mutryn chased the ball and Ruley chased around the paths. Mutryn figured he had a chance to nail the Findlay catcher at the plate, but his throw was wild and Ruley scored.

Ruley's smash made up for a lapse in the seventh that gave Mansfield a run. A ball got by him behind the plate, and before he could find it, Ankrum, Mansfield shortstop had scored from second.

Griffore, Findlay pitcher, fanned eight Mansfielders, while Patterson got four Oilers on strikes.

The teams play in Mansfield tonight.

Curiosity, as well as hunger, makes us humans peek into kettles, and the raccoon has the same failing. Some trappers never bait or conceal coon traps . . . just hang a shiny object over them and rely on the nosey raccoon to step in.

Chiggers are a nuisance and by burrowing under the skin cause itching which soon leads to sores. A good preventative is to mix hyposulphite of soda with water and rub it on your legs. This solution will also kill any chiggers already in the skin.

One of the best plugs for early bass fishing (season opens June 16) is the traveling surface lure. The bass leave the deeper waters in late March or early April and spawn in the shallows. Then they reside in the surrounding neighborhood until really warm weather sets in. The bass easily detect any good lure on top of the water, and will hit this type of plug quite readily. You'll find dozens of best surface plugs at Yuncker's, along with hundreds of other favorite types of fish getters. Now is a good time to make your selection.

In addition to tightening the clamp screws on your outboard motor, it's a good idea to tie or chain the motor, in case vibration loosens the screws. Many a motor is now "asleep in the deep," simply because this precaution was not taken.

Most colossal of all living fish is the whale shark (true whales are mammals.) He runs to 60 feet in length, has 3000 teeth and would wreck any fishing tackle, yet is harmless unless attacked.

Although the pint-sized Fennec fox grows to be only about 15 inches long, of which his tail is about 7 inches, he sports the largest ears of all the foxes: They are stuffed with hair to keep out the desert sand.

Yes, Yuncker's rent outboard motors. You can rent the dependable Johnson Sea Horse, in various models, in good running condition for a nominal sum at Yuncker's new boat and marine hardware department (downstairs).

While the skunk's powerful odor battery seems plainly a defensive weapon, the tiny musk deer of northern India has an equally strong but fragrant abdominal sac which supplies the base for fine perfumes.

MANY ISSUES ON MART DOZE AMID FAINT RECOVERY

Brokers Satisfied With Trend In Face of War News, Cloudy Outlook.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Faint recovery signs appeared here and there in today's stock market but many issues dozed at slightly lower levels.

Most brokers were of the opinion the market acted fairly well in the face of bad news from Crete, the cloudy tax program, the governmental price-fixing outlook and extension of priorities to many basic materials used in defense operations.

Stocks on the rising side included Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Aircraft, United Aircraft and Anaconda.

Backward were U. S. Steel, General Motors, American Telephone, International Harvester, Boeing and Glenn Martin.

HUNDREDS SEE SHELBY PARADE

Memorial Day Observance Climaxed With Program At Oakland Cemetery.

SHELBY—Hundreds of residents of this community were lined along downtown streets Friday to witness the annual parade held here as part of the Memorial day observance.

The procession moved west on Main street from Wentz avenue then south on Gamble street to Oakland cemetery where the annual program was held.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch of Mansfield gave the annual Memorial day address on "America In the World Today."

Mayor W. R. Morris as president of the day presided over the program and introduced the various speakers. Music was played by the 75-piece high school band directed by Music Supervisor Harold G. Koerber.

Taking part in the parade were the American Legion drum corps from Mansfield, high school band, school children, patriotic organizations and other interested groups and individuals.

Supt. C. G. Keck of the Shelby schools was marshal for the parade. Assistant marshals were Luke Edgar, C. R. Knee and Fred Sheridan.

BRITISH LOSE CRETE, WIN IN BATTLE OF IRAQ

Motorized Units Move Into Outskirts of Baghdad As Ali Flees.

mountains and coastal plains of 160-mile long Crete was tightening an Axis vise on the last, die-hard defenders of the Greek island.

The Germans were reported about to make a junction with Italian forces landed on the eastern end of Crete in the last stages of the invasion. Defenders still in the fight were in between.

The high command said some of the British and Greeks had fled to the island of Gavdos, 25 miles off the south coast of Crete, where the Luftwaffe pursued them with bomb and machine-gun while also blasting at Crete's southern ports to smash the new Dunkerque.

Other defense forces were reported seeking the comparative safety of Egypt in what boats they could muster on the Cretan shore.

Authoritative London sources "presumed" that Britain had granted the Iraq plea for an armistice, adding "as between ourselves and the rebels, the whole thing is over." The armistice request was understood to have come from a committee in control of the capital, Baghdad.

The prospect of full-dress war in Iraq was a ticklish problem for Iraq's neighbors, Turkey and French-mandated Syria. Turkey was still to make up her mind whether to fight at Britain's side. Thus far, she has been Britain's ally on paper only.

The French in Syria, already bellicose over British bombing of Syrian airdromes used by Iraq-bound German planes, undoubtedly will be called upon to provide greater right-of-way for Axis forces. Thus far, France has merely fulfilled an armistice commitment in permitting the Germans to use Syrian airbases.

The strain between France and her former ally, Britain, was heightened by the French report that British planes yesterday attacked Sfax, Tunisia, a North African possession, less than 24 hours after Vichy formally protested a British bombing of the port on Wednesday.

The British bombardment was directed at an Italian merchantman moored in the harbor, the French acknowledged. Britain has threatened sharp reprisals on the French for any active collaboration with the Axis.

A dispatch to Vichy telling of the new attack upon Sfax declared, "French naval units and the air force are assuring the defense of Sfax." But it did not say how specifically.

The war in Africa, now subsidiary to developments in the eastern Mediterranean, still found the British holding out at Tobruk, Libya, under Axis land and air harassment after 50 days of siege. Linked with an aerial assault yesterday was an attack by German desert artillery which the high command said had blown up a munitions dump.

In the Egyptian desert, where Axis forces now stand as an incipient threat to the Alexandria naval base and the Suez canal, German Stukas and fighter planes, joined by Italian bombers, were said to have attacked the British lines.

The Ethiopian campaign had dwindled to a British campaign of mopping up minor pockets of Italian resistance. Italian garrisons, Rome said, were continuing to resist "preponderant British forces."

The air battle of Britain and the war of the seaways, also overshadowed by the Crete-Iraq developments, were marked overnight by German attacks upon Britain's west coast, the Mersey region of Liverpool and Bristol channel. These centered on Liverpool, Bristol, Cardiff and Cowles, Germans said.

A German submarine added to the mounting toll of British shipping with a report that 44,000 tons had been sent recently to the bottom.

Through the raking from the air and from under the sea, Britain's first shipload of food from the United States under the lend-lease bill reached a British port.

The German press jubilantly published screaming headlines proclaiming that "Victory is ours" and declared that Nazi air power definitely had proved its superiority over British sea power in the eastern Mediterranean in the past 11 days of bitter fighting.

Informed military circles in Germany pictured Axis successes in Crete as the forerunner of a smash at the Suez canal—two hours flying time away—and also as a significant test of the vulnerability of island fortresses against assault from the air.

In the western air war, Nazi bombers struck at Liverpool, South Wales and other targets in Britain, while bad weather kept the RAF at home. The English said the German raids were on a light scale.

At an unidentified English port, meanwhile, the story of the death of the German battleship Bismarck last Tuesday picked up detail.

One British naval officer declared that the Nazi vessel, heretofore pictured as a 35,000-ton craft, actually was a 50,000-ton super-dreadnought, or the largest warship in the world. She was said to have been crowded with 2,400 men, including 400 naval cadets, when she went down.

Eighty-two survivors of the big ship were brought into an English port last night.

FRANCE TO GET NEW U. S. NOTE

Judgment to Be Based on Acts Not Words, Authoritative Quarters Report.

ed that viewpoint in his talk to the nation Tuesday when he specifically mentioned French African colonies and "the Atlantic fortress of Dakar" as possible springboards for German attacks on the western hemisphere.)

The Vichy government's allegation that the armistice gave Germany and Italy "control" of all airfields and installations on French territory, it was pointed out in informed circles, was not accepted by the United States as a proper interpretation of the armistice provisions.

In informed quarters it was stated that the American note would point out that "control" during an armistice means that the airfields may not be used by the vanquished nation, but does not mean that the victorious nation may use the airfields for belligerent purposes.

If the French interpretation of "control" were correct, it was pointed out, Germany might demand permission to use bases not only in unoccupied France and French African possessions but also in Martinique, French Guiana and other new world colonies.

HEAVY RAINS BENEFIT CROPS

59 and had reached 67 degrees by noon.

The latest storm did little, however, to relieve the lowered water table which has caused wells and springs to dry up within the past month. Sprunger said that the greatest per cent of the rainfall would be surface water. Although it helped crops and raised cisterns fed by roof drainage, he pointed out that wells and water table only benefitted by waters seeping through the earth.

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of Ohio State reformatory, who stated yesterday that his institution faced the threat of a serious water shortage because of the lowered water table, announced today that the situation was slightly bettered.

Glattke did not attribute the increase in water supply to the rains, however, but to the use of reserve wells. The superintendent said that the rainfall did not penetrate the surface enough to raise the wells.

The water from the reformatory's reserve wells has enabled the reformatory to store a small amount in reserve tanks. Glattke said that a reserve of about 250,000 gallons was maintained when possible but that because of the present shortage that water was being pumped directly into the supply lines. He said if the reserve wells continue to show increases that the crisis will be passed.

RETAIN GUARD AT KEY PLANTS

Patrols Kept as Precaution After Rumor of Mass Sabotage Plot.

cautions taken—such as mounting of anti-aircraft guns at west coast plane plants when the threatened danger was an explosion or a fire. Army and navy officials, however, described the action as a "maneuver" in the event of war and not because they expected an aerial attack.

New barriers were set up over the holiday a long the Los Angeles waterfront, and New York police maintained a sabotage patrol on the Brooklyn waterfront.

Nine instead of the usual five patrol boats were on duty in the vicinity of the Newport News, Va., Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. Additional sentries also were reported at the Norfolk navy base and yard and at nearby Fort Story.

Cancellation of Memorial day week-end leaves at army posts near industrial areas was said to have been done in order to have troops ready "for any emergency."

The straw hat we're speaking of is difefrent from anything you've ever worn.

It looks just like a fine felt but it's porous and cool . . . and once your hair gets used to the air conditioning, it won't want to go back to the stuffiness of winter.

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

LOOK, ZERO!! ON THE SEA-CHEST — THERE'S THE DOLL THE KIDS GAVE ME FOR A PRESENT
THAT PROVES I WASN'T JUST DREAMIN' THAT ALL THEM SWELL LITTLE KIDS GAVE ME A SURPRISE PARTY YESTERDAY—
GLORYOSKY, ZERO, I GUESS THIS IS THE MOST WONDERFUL DOLL IN THE WHOLE WORLD — IT LOOKS NICE AN' NEW, BUT IT'S TERRIBLE OLD ——
MRS. JIM SEZ IT'S BEEN MAKIN' LITTLE GIRLS HAPPY FOR GENERATIONS —AN' NOW IT MAKES ME FEEL GLAD ALL OVER JUST TO LOOK AT IT — AIN'T EVERYTHING GRAND?
DARRELL McCLURE
GLORYOSKY, CAPTAIN EZRA — DON'T THE SEA LOOK SWELL? SO NICE AN' FRIENDLY AN' PEACEFUL — THE LITTLE WAVES KEEP RUNNING UP TO SHAKE HANDS WITH THE BOAT
I'M ADMITTING THE WATER DOES ACT PLUMB MEEK AN' MILD TODAY — BUT I'M KEEPING A WEATHER-EYE OPEN JEST THE SAME!
THE SEA IS LIKE A LITTLE WOOLY LAMB THAT CAN CHANGE TO A WILD, ROARING, RAGING TIGER — QUICKER THAN YOU CAN SAY "JACK ROBINSON"
GEE, CAPTAIN EZRA, DO YOU THINK THERE'S GONNA BE A STORM?
DARRELL McCLURE
I ALWAYS FIGGER THERE'S A STORM A-COMING — THAT'S WHY I'VE LIVED SO LONG! I FIGGER THE SEA IS JUST LIKE A JUNGLE — YOU SEE FLOWERS, HEAR BIRDS A-SINGING — BUT IF YOU LET YOURSELF FORGET THE SNAKES AND TIGERS YOU'LL NEVER COMB YOUR GRAY HAIR
HONEST, I THINK YOU'RE SWELL — ALL THE KIDS IN THIS TOWN ARE SWELL — THEY KNOW I'M AN ORPHAN, BUT THEY DON'T MIND — THEY TREAT ME JUST LIKE I HAD FOLKS LIKE REGULAR KIDS HAVE
WHY, NOBODY CAN HELP IT IF THEY'RE AN ORPHAN! OUR FATHER WAS LOST AT SEA — THEN MOTHER DIED AN' WE WENT TO LIVE AT UNCLE HENRY'S HOUSE
GEE, I'M SORRY — I DIDN'T KNOW
THERE ARE HEAPS OF WIDOWS AN' ORPHANS ALL OVER TOWN — STORMS COME — SHIPS ARE WRECKED — CREWS ARE LOST — MY GOODNESS, I NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT
DARRELL McCLURE
NOW PLEASE DON'T WORRY, ANNIE — WHEN THE 'HUMMING BIRD' SAILS YOU CAN LIVE AT UNCLE HENRY'S HOUSE — AND BE OUR NEW SISTER
??
I'M NOT NAMING ANY NAMES — BUT — YOU KNOW THIS TOWN HAS PLENTY OF FAMILIES WHO ARE SHIFTLESS AND GIVE NO THOUGHT TO THE FUTURE
LAZY GOOD-FOR-NOTHINGS WHO LET THEIR CHILDREN RUN WILD AS GOATS — IF YOU PERMIT US TO TAKE THE LITTLE GIRL YOU KNOW WE'LL WATCH HER CONSTANTLY — TEACH HER TO COOK AND SEW AND —
YES — I KNOW JUST THE KIND OF A LIFE ANNIE WOULD LEAD, BUT —
BUT — WHAT ABBIE MEANS IS — WE'VE HAD SO MANY KIND OFFERS WE'LL HAVE TO HAVE TIME TO DECIDE WHICH IS BEST —
DARRELL McCLURE
I GUESS THEY MUST BE TERRIBLE GOOD PEOPLE — 'CAUSE THEY DON'T SMILE OR LAFF — BUT I'LL BETCHA THEY WOULDN'T LIKE ORPHANS OR POOCHES!
WELL, I'LL BE A SON-OF-A-SEA-COOK — IF YOU AIN'T A REGULAR LITTLE MERMAID — FACING THE STORM LIKE OLD KING NEPTUNE, HIMSELF — MOST YOUNGSTERS WOULD BE SCARED TO DEATH
HONEST, I'M KINDA SCARED OF THE WAY THE 'HUMMING BIRD' KEEPS JUMPIN' UP AN' DOWN — BUT I DON'T WANT CAPTAIN JIM TO THINK I'M A 'FRAIDY CAT
DON'T WORRY — NO ONE WILL THINK YOU'RE A "FRAIDY CAT" — BUT I THINK YOU HAD BETTER GO BELOW — ABBIE MIGHT BE LONESOME
HONEST, ZERO — I'M SORRY I WAS SUCH A DUMB OX — I WAS SO BUSY WATCHIN' THE STORM I FORGOT YOU DIDN'T HAVE A SWELL RUBBER-COAT TO KEEP YOU NICE AN' DRY, TOO
DARRELL McCLURE
I'VE SIGNED UP FOR A CARGO OF AIRPLANE PARTS — FOR DELIVERY IN MANILA
THAT MEANS WE'LL HAVE TO DECIDE ABOUT LITTLE ANNIE IN A HURRY
OUR SON, ROBERT, HAS A FINE HOME — HE'S OFFERED TO TAKE ANNIE AND TREAT HER LIKE HE DOES HIS OWN CHILDREN
BUT WHAT DOES ROBERT'S WIFE THINK ABOUT IT?
SHE'S A GOOD WOMAN, BUT SHE BELONGS TO SO MANY CLUBS — 'SEEMS LIKE SHE SPENDS MOST OF HER TIME AT MEETINGS — SHE MIGHT NOT LIKE TAKING CARE OF ANOTHER CHILD —
DARRELL McCLURE
GEE, ZERO, DID YOU HEAR WHAT CAPTAIN JIM SAID? THE 'HUMMING BIRD'S' GONNA LEAVE RIGHT AWAY — 'COURSE, I KNOW WE CAN'T GO — BUT I'LL HAVE THE WIM-WAMS SOMETHIN' AWFUL WHEN CAPTAIN AN' MRS. JIM GO AWAY

G-MAN AND THE "LADY"

DO YOU KNOW WHY I AM SITTING OUT THIS GAME? I WANT TO GET CERTAIN THINGS CLEAR BETWEEN US, X-9!
VERY GOOD, COUNTESS!
YOU THINK I AM A SPY — THE VERY NOTORIOUS ONE, KNOWN AS THE "LADY"!
WELL — AREN'T YOU?
YES — OF COURSE! WHY SHOULD I BOTHER TO DENY IT? WHAT CAN YOU DO?
YOU AMERICANS ARE A STRANGE LOT. THE LAWS PROTECT THE BAD AND THE GOOD! IN MY COUNTRY, AMONG OTHERS, YOU WOULD NOT HAVE TO WAIT FOR LEGAL PROOF TO ARREST ME!
WE LIKE IT OUR WAY, COUNTESS!
MEL GRAFF
SO YOU'RE ON THE LEVEL WITH ME, COUNTESS? MY, THIS MUST BE THE NEW STREAMLINED MODEL OF ESPIONAGE!
THE G-MAN FLATTERS ME!
HE CANNOT ARREST ME — HE HAS NO TANGIBLE EVIDENCE! POOR FELLOW — WOULD YOU CARE TO KNOW MY FUTURE PLANS?
CERTAINLY!
LOOK AT THAT COURT — THERE ARE FOUR PLAYERS... ONE OF THEM — AN ENEMY OF MY COUNTRY — IS MARKED FOR EXTINCTION!
VERY INTERESTING!
BUT WHY ARE WE BEING SO SERIOUS? I LIKE YOUR COMPANY — WILL YOU GO RIDING WITH ME IN THE MORNING?
WHY NOT?
MEL GRAFF
REMEMBER, X-9 — WE HAVE A DATE TO GO RIDING TOMORROW MORNING!
RIGHT-O!
WELL, "LADY" — HOW DID YOU MAKE OUT WITH HIM?
PERFECT! I ADMITTED I WAS A SPY — ALSO THAT I HAD ONE OF OUR COUNTRY'S ENEMIES MARKED FOR LIQUIDATION!
WHAT RASHNESS IS THIS? HAVE YOU LOST YOUR MIND?
EXCELLENCY! YOU ARE OUT OF TOUCH WITH THE TIMES — TELL THESE PEOPLE A TRUTH AND THEY ARE DELUDED INTO THINKING THAT YOU ARE LYING!
WHAT IS MORE, I SHALL ARRANGE SO THAT THIS BUNGLING DETECTIVE WILL VOLUNTARILY PROVIDE ME WITH AN ALIBI!
MEL GRAFF
I CAN'T BELIEVE IT, X-9! NO SPY WOULD DELIBERATELY ANNOUNCE A MURDER! THAT DAME IS PULLING YOUR LEG!
NOT A CHANCE, BILL — AND THE "LADY" IS NO SPY!
SHE'S A MEMBER OF A SECRET POLICE ORGANIZATION WITH AN OPEN ASSIGNMENT TO LIQUIDATE A FEW DANGEROUS ENEMIES OF HER GOVERNMENT WHO'VE FOUND REFUGE HERE!
GONE!
WHO'S GONE?
A FOURSOME WAS PLAYING ON THIS COURT A FEW MINUTES AGO! THE "LADY" SAID ONE OF THE MEN WAS A POLITICAL ENEMY, SLATED TO BE BUMPED OFF — LET'S GET TO THE CLUBHOUSE!
MEL GRAFF
WE'RE IN LUCK, BILL! THERE ARE THE MEN WHO WERE PLAYING ON THE END TENNIS COURT!
SWELL! NOW WE CAN CHECK TO SEE WHICH OF THEM IS MARKED TO BE RUBBED OUT BY THE "LADY'S" SECRET POLICE ORGANIZATION!
PARDON ME, GENTLEMEN!
WHAT?
JUST A MOMENT, BOYS! I'M X-9, OF THE FBI!
PUT DOWN THOSE GUNS, BEFORE I — A THOUSAND APOLOGIES! THESE ARE MY ARMED GUARDS — WE THOUGHT YOU HAD, ER, OTHER INTENTIONS!
SAY, HAVEN'T I SEEN YOU BEFORE?
MEL GRAFF
I DEEMED IT ADVISABLE TO TALK IN MY CAR, AS WE RIDE MY MEN ARE FOLLOWING IN ANOTHER CAR .. WHAT WAS IT YOU WISHED TO TELL ME, GENTLEMEN?
A SECRET POLICE ORGANIZATION, HEADED BY A WOMAN KNOWN AS THE "LADY", HAS SLATED YOU — OR ONE OF YOUR MEN — FOR —— ASSASSINATION? IS THAT IT?
RIGHT! APPARENTLY THE MARKED MAN FORMERLY OCCUPIED AN IMPORTANT POLITICAL POST ABROAD — IS THAT TRUE?
YES! I AM THAT MAN!
I KNOW I'VE SEEN YOUR FACE BEFORE! MIND TELLING ME YOUR NAME?
ER, AH — JUST PLAIN MR. HILARY, IF YOU PLEASE!

WHY DO YOU HAVE TO REMIND ME OF HIM, TOOTS, WHEN I'VE BEEN YEARS TRYING TO FORGET HIM? I LIKE HIM AS MUCH AS I WOULD THE MEASLES.
YOU WERE JEALOUS OF HIM, BECAUSE HE WAS ALWAYS SO NICE TO ME.
HE TRIED TO DATE YOU UP EVERY TIME MY BACK WAS TURNED.
HE USED TO FRAME IT WITH THE TEACHER TO HAVE ME KEPT IN AFTER SCHOOL, SO HE COULD WALK HOME WITH TOOTS! NOW MY DAY IS SPOILED JUST FROM THINKING OF HIM!

GEE, I'M SO THRILLED, DEAR. I WONDER IF HE'S AS GOOD-LOOKING AS HE USED TO BE?
I'LL NOT HELP HIM TO GET A JOB, EITHER.
I THINK IT WOULD BE NICE IF HE LOCATED HERE--- THEN WE COULD SEE EACH OTHER OFTEN! PLEASE HELP HIM FIND A JOB.
SURE, TOOTS, I WILL! THE BOSS NEEDS A MANAGER FOR HIS SHANGHAI BRANCH AND I'LL PUT IN A PLUG FOR WALLY FOR THE JOB!

HE GETS THE COMPLIMENTS, AND I GOT YOU.... THAT'S FAIR ENOUGH-
